

The Man Who Thinks Will Wear Hess Shoes

The man who thinks asks himself WHY? on every proposition—he wants to know the reason for everything.

We want the man who THINKS to reason out why he should buy HESS SHOES. And here are a few of the reasons—

N. HESS' SONS have been manufacturing shoes for 50 years. They began by making the best shoes that could be manufactured, and they have always kept up their high standard. Materials and workmen cost more than they did before, but we put in just the same high quality of leather as before and pay more for the best shoemakers—in short, the "quality" has never been cheapened.

The fame of HESS SHOES is based on superior construction, elegance of style lines, and unsurpassed FITTING QUALITIES.

There must be reasons, and plenty of them, why so many men have gone on wearing HESS SHOES year after year. They represent the best value in shoes money can buy. LET US PROVE IT TO YOU. BUY A PAIR TODAY AND PROVE IT TO YOUR COMPLETE SATISFACTION.

SOUTHEAST BRANCH IS VICTOR.

Fort Myer Quint Defeated in Interesting Basketball Game.

A fast and interesting game of basketball was played last night between the Southeast Branch team and the Fort Myer five, in which the former were victors by 20 to 22. The game was well played throughout and proved sensational in many ways. The passing of the Southeast Branch quint was swift and accurate, and the goal throwing of Kellier, who had fifteen goals to his credit, was a feature.

The line-up and summary:

Southeast B. Positions Fort Myer
Coleman Right forward Burnett
Kellier Center Stier
Giovanna Right guard Castor Hogan
Goals from Coleman (9), Collingsworth (3), Kellier (15), Giovanna (3), Crown (3), McLean (1), Stier (2), Hogan (3), Wellman (2).

TO PLAY HOPKINS.

Gallaudet Football Team Closes Season This Afternoon.

Gallaudet plegion warriors leave this morning for Baltimore to play their annual game with the strong Johns Hopkins University eleven this afternoon.

The Buff and Blue squad goes into the game with a crippled team, as Battiste, the star Indian quarter back, is still nursing a badly dislocated elbow, sustained in Tuesday's practice scrimmage with the Central High School team. "Red" Esakoon, the big veteran tackle, is hobbling around with crutches on account of a sore leg. Gardner, another veteran tackle, is out of the game owing to a sprain on his left arm.

This is Gallaudet's last game of her regular schedule, unless a date can be arranged with the newly organized Catholic University team, and the Kendall Greeners are determined to give a good account against their Baltimore opponents.

CARLISLE LOSES HOUSER.

Star Full Back Out of Indiana's Final Game.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 12.—In the absence of the Carlisle Indian coach, Warner, Coach Windward took the reins through a light signal drill here this afternoon, in making ready for the game here against the strong Gettysburg eleven to-morrow, which is coming to Carlisle with a win or die spirit.

The Indians are badly battered and will be minus the services of Full Back Houser, who is always a tower of strength to Carlisle.

To-morrow's game will be the closing big football event at Carlisle this season.

V. P. I. WINS GAME

George Washington Beaten in Fierce Battle, 17 to 8.

CRAFTS IS THE REAL STAR

Half Back of the Hatchettes Runs Through Entire Visiting Team for Seventy Yards and a Touchdown. Morse Kicks Pretty Goal from the Field—Hodgson's Punting a Feature.

By WILLIAM PEET.

The Virginia Polytechnic Institute wiped out that 6-to-0 football defeat administered by George Washington in Blacksburg last year by trouncing the Hatchettes on the National Park gridiron yesterday afternoon, 17 to 8, scoring two touchdowns in the first half and one in the second.

The battle was one of the fiercest and most stubbornly fought ever seen on a local gridiron. Players were laid out after every third rush, and three husky pigskin chasers had to be carried off the field as the result of injuries.

Half Back Fritz Crafts, of George Washington, was the hero of the day. Just before time was called in the second half he caught one of Hodgson's spirals on his own 30-yard line and with only one man to block off tacklers ran through the entire Tech team for a touchdown.

This run will go down in George Washington football history, and Crafts deserves all the good things we can say of him for his brilliant individual showing. No one worked harder than he to save his team from defeat. Always a strong offensive player, he proved yesterday that he knew something of the defensive game.

The Hatchettes' other three points were scored by Quarter Back Morse when the game was less than three minutes old. Morse stepped back to his own 25-yard line and dropped kicked as pretty a goal as one would ask to see.

Fumbles Prove Costly.

Two of the visitors' touchdowns were gained on recovered punts after George Washington's backs had fumbled within striking distance of the goal line. The Tech's, when within 15 yards of George Washington's goal, could not be stopped. V. B. Hodgson, Davis, and Billups simply tore their way through for the necessary distance, and a touchdown invariably resulted.

Hodgson's punting, as predicted, was one of the features. He did not seem to try for distance so much as to boot the ball away from the men playing back, which meant a long run and the usual possibility of a fumble. Tech's ends were blocked frequently early in the game, but during the second half managed to reach their man in good shape. Both Morse and Crafts muffed many punts, but in most cases were able to recover the ball before an opposing end could pounce down upon it.

In addition to Crafts' wonderful run, Hart, Bickhoff, and Farmer did the best work for the Hatchettes. The day was altogether too warm for good football, and the heat told on the playing of several men on both teams. There was a big crowd on hand for a Friday game, and V. P. I. was well represented.

The Game in Detail.

Hart, for George Washington, kicked off, booting the ball over the line. Tech elected to punt out from the 25-yard line and Hodgson sent the ball spinning to Crafts on his own 35-yard mark. On a fake kick, Morse got around Hicker and for 15 yards, and on the next line-up Morse punted to Hughes on V. P. I.'s 10-yard line.

Hodgson immediately punted to Crafts and Hicker tackled the Hatchette player so hard that he (Hicks) was laid out cold, and A. M. Hodgson was sent to replace him. Crafts, on a fake kick, circled Luttrell's end for 12 yards. Farmer and Ellis on line plunges made it first down for George Washington, bringing the ball to within 30 yards of the Virginians' line, where Morse kicked a pretty goal, sending the Hatchette rosters crazy with delight.

Hodgson kicked off to Hart, who gained 7 yards. Farmer bucked right center for 6 more, and George Washington was penalized for illegal use of the arms. Ellis was thrown for a loss and Morse punted to Hughes.

On the next line-up Hodgson got off a pretty on-side kick, and Morse was lucky to recover the ball on his own 5-yard line. Morse was forced to kick from behind his own goal line, and Hughes caught the ball within 30 yards of the posts. Full Back Hodgson smashed through George Washington's right wing for first down and Emory Hodson attempted a goal from placement, but the kick was blocked by Hart. Jones saved the ball for the visitors, and Hodgson again punted to Morse on George Washington's 25-yard line. The Virginians again took the ball when Morse was forced to kick and rushed it to within 7 yards of the Hatchettes' goal line, where they were held for downs.

Several exchanges of punts followed. One of Morse's attempts was blocked, and V. P. I. recovered the ball on the Hatchettes' 25-yard line. From this point it took just six plunges by V. B. Hodgson, Davis, and Billups to advance the ball to the Hatchette 45-yard mark. V. B. Hodgson was smashed through Alston and Elckhoff for a touchdown, where a funny incident occurred. Just as Hodgson went over the line he fumbled the ball, and Jones grabbed it in the nick of time. Emory Hodgson missed the goal.

During the next nine minutes of play there was a whole lot of punting by both sides, and Emory Hodgson paved the way for a second touchdown, when one of his spirals put away from Crafts, near the Hatchettes' 15-yard line, and A. M. Hodgson fell on the ball for the visitors.

Smash Through Line.

Again the strong V. P. I. backs plowed their way through George Washington's line, and V. B. Hodgson was shoved over for a touchdown. This time his brother kicked the goal, placing the figures V. P. I., 11; George Washington, 3.

Before the half closed Morse had one chance to kick a field goal, and once Emory Hodgson attempted a kick from placement, but both failed.

Second Half.

For about five minutes after the second half opened the Hatchettes made things hum. Right after the kick-off Crafts, Farmer, and Morse alternated in carrying the ball and tore off 35 yards before the Virginians finally took a brace and checked the onslaught. Morse got another chance a few minutes later to try a drop kick from the 20-yard line as Fowler recovered the ball on a punt. The kick went wide by many yards.

From this stage the battle waged with thrilling fierceness, both sides playing all the football they knew how. Hodgson and Morse engaged in a punting duel, and on the exchange the visitors gained ground nearly every time. Play seemed sawed back and forth for twenty minutes until Legg, a substitute half back, after a punt, ran the ball to the Hatchettes' 20-yard line, where the same line-smashing tactics were brought into play by the visitors, and George Washington's forwards crumbled before the fierce attack. V. B. Hodgson made the touchdown and his brother kicked an easy goal.

Two minutes later, Crafts made his sensational 70-yard run for a touchdown as described in the foregoing. Big Hart, after blocking off several opposing tacklers, managed to reach Crafts' side, and ran with him 20 yards to the goal. Ellis missed the goal from touchdown, and the figures were placed at 17 to 8, in favor of the boys from Blacksburg.

There was a lot of nerve play until the final whistle blew, but neither goal was in immediate danger.

One feature of the game was the noticeable absence of new football. The forward pass was tried several times by both teams, but failed to work. Old-fashioned football was brought into play by the visitors when a touchdown was needed and proved to be good enough to make the required distance.

PENNSY IS WORRIED.

Eleven Realizes Heavy Odds of Game Against Michigan.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—Pennsylvania's coaches put the finishing touches to the Red and Blue team at Winslow Junction to-day in preparation for the game with Michigan at Franklin Field to-morrow afternoon. Neither the coaches nor the players are at all confident over the outcome of the contest, and the men were worked hard in order that they be prepared for the hard game which is expected. As the Wolverines' line outweighs the Quaker line-men nearly ten pounds to the man, the Penn coaches are naturally a bit worried.

This morning about half of the team went to the city to attend classes. As soon as the rest of the team returned from college the entire squad donned their football clothes and were set to work on the field in front of the hotel. The team showed that the change of air and scene has had the desired effect of putting them in the pink of condition.

CORNELL IS SHOWING FORM.

Chicago Up Against Hard Proposition This Afternoon.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Cornell will meet Chicago at Percy Field to-morrow in the last game of the season and the first battle between the two eleven in a number of years. The Maroons spent the day in Geneva, where they practiced for a short time at Hobart Field, where the Princeton teams usually work before their annual games with Cornell.

The Chicago bunch will reach here to-morrow morning.

Cornell ran through signals to-night for half an hour, polishing up the plays and limbering up.

The Cornell coaches said that their team was showing football form at last, but were by no means certain of victory. On the other hand, Chicago rosters in town said their eleven was 250 per cent better than in the Minnesota game. The betting favors Cornell.

JOHNSON BUYS A HOUSE.

Heavy-weight Champion Becomes a Property Owner in Chicago, Ill.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—John Arthur Johnson, champion heavy-weight pugilist, became a taxpayer in Chicago when a deed was filed for record making him sole owner of property which comprises a three-story brick dwelling on a lot 50 by 24 feet. The house and lot was purchased for $12,000. A garage will be built in the rear, where Jack will keep his motors, and he plans to make room for at least four machines. Adjacent to the garage will be a gymnasium.

READY FOR VIRGINIA

Georgetown Expects Toughest Game of Schedule.

SMALL SCORE IS PREDICTED

Charlottesville Boys Arrive and Are Confident of Victory by Good-sized Margin—Record-breaking Crowd Is Expected to Be on Hand—Betting Odds 2 to 1 in Favor of Southerners.

By WILLIAM PEET.

Georgetown and Virginia will clash to-day in the one big game on the Hilltoppers' schedule, and rivalry is at fever heat. On past performance, Virginia should win by about two touchdowns, but despite all predictions, the Blue and Gray hope to keep the score down, and many of the West Side rooters can figure where Georgetown has a chance to win. In spite of all the early do, and the great showing Virginia made against the Navy, it is argued that the Hilltoppers have a line that is not only the equal, but better than the Southerners can produce, and in Wymard Georgetown has a punter who can show up the best man in Virginia's line-up.

Taking everything into consideration, the Orange and Blue is stronger in the back field, and that lets them out. Georgetown's line is every bit as good as Virginia's, and their backs may spring several surprises before the final whistle blows.

Confidence reigns supreme in the Virginia camp. The Charlottesville crowd arrived in town at 7:30 o'clock last night, and put up at the Arlington Hotel. The betting, according to Virginia rosters, was at 2-to-1 odds.

Trainer Lannigan said: "I have my boys in perfect shape for to-morrow's game, and if they do not win, it will be because Georgetown has the better-trained team."

According to the weather predictions, the day will be fair and colder, all of which will help some, for it will be remembered that last year the snow and rain proved to be a serious handicap to both teams.

Figuring out the weights of the rival teams, Georgetown outweighs Virginia by a scant pound in the aggregate, but this will not count for much in the final result.

Picks Virginia to Win.

The writer looks for a Virginia victory by a scant 6 points to 0, while it is figured out that if Wymard is in good form his punting may hold the score down to 0 to 0.

The statistics of both teams are published in another column.

From Charlottesville comes the report that two special trains will leave that place with 500 undergraduates and a brass band to live things up. On the other hand, Georgetown will not be far behind, as all the departments of the university will be represented at the game.

No matter how you figure it, the game is bound to be close, and the team that wins will know that it has been in a football game.

FINAL TOUCHES AT HARVARD.

McKay Back in Crimson Eleven. Men Are Confident.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—Final touches were added to the Crimson team for the Dartmouth game to-day in a very light signal drill. All the men are in first class condition for a hard game; but the big men are going to be watched very closely for injuries and saved as much as possible for the all-important contest against Yale next Saturday.

Although Minot has been given very light work this week, he is expected to start the game to-morrow at full back. The left side of the line will be reinforced by the powerful McKay at tackle who seems not to have lost any of his old-time glories by being out for several weeks. Corbett will be a great addition to the backfield, and with Minot and Leslie as running mates to-morrow, Harvard's chances for scoring will be greatly bettered.

INTERCITY MATCH TO-NIGHT.

Crack Bowlers of Baltimore and Washington Meet.

The Victorias, the crack Baltimore duck pin team, will roll a match game on the Royal alleys to-night against a picked team, representing this city.

Baltimore will be represented by Kaden, Wolfender, Mahoney, Weller, and Gorman, the local team being picked from Block, Yarns, Sims, Marshall, Chiswell, and Ricketts.
